

Teen Text

Where God's Story and Teens' Stories Connect

TeenText is designed to help High School youth (9th-12th grades) take Biblical text off the page and integrate it into their everyday life. In TeenText the student is the curriculum. The process meets them where they are - grappling eagerly and passionately with the concept that their first task is with themselves. The key point – find out where your youth are and then through your \open-ended questions, relate the text to their lives. Each TeenText discussion guide provides the information needed to facilitate the session.

KidText, for use with middle school youth, follows the same format, using the Contemporary English Version text.

TeenText and KidText are written by David (Bubba) Stevenson of Denver, CO, and were inspired by the Bible-study process used in the Bible Workbench, also published by the Educational Center.
